O Crucified Redeemer

O Crucified Redeemer, whose life-blood we have split, to you we raise our guilty hands, and humbly own our guilt. Today we see your passion spread open to our gaze; the crowded street, the country road, its calvary displays.

We hear your cry of anguish, we see your life out-poured where battle-fields run red with blood, our neighbors' blood, O Lord; and in that other battle, the fight for daily bread, where might is right and self is king, we see your thorn-crowned head.

The groaning of creation wrung out by pain and care, the anguish of a million hearts that break in dumb despair; O crucified Redeemer, these are your cries of pain; O may they break our selfish heart, and love come in to reign.

O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee

O Master, let me walk with thee in lowly paths of service free; tell me thy secret; help me bear the strain of toil, the fret of care.

Help me slow of heart to move by some clear, winning word of love; teach me wayward feet to stay, and guide them in the homeward way.

Teach me thy patience; still with thee in closer, dearer company, in work that keeps faith sweet and strong, in trust that triumphs over wrong.

In hope that sends a shining ray far down the future's broadening way, in peace that only thou canst give with thee, O' Master, let me live.
